John:

The noise from the control booth during [redacted] program on 6 March resulted from two technicians discussing problems with moving spotlights for [redacted]. She had asked that her entrance to the Auditorium and presentation on stage be spotlighted. Instead of telling her we didn't have the capability, Logistics tried to jury-rig spotlights through an open window in the booth. The two technicians did not realize that, due to the open window and their height in the auditorium, their discussion of how to move the lights could be heard. Another factor was that [redacted] did not use a mike.
